WE can see no good reason for opposition to the report of the wharf and landing committee concerning the Little Rock railroad and center landing on the part of the board of aldermen. The committee, in this report, provide clearly and distinctly for the surrender of the ground on demand, and insist on the water front being protected from the ravages of the river. More could not be asked, and the fact of violation of former agreement by the railroad has nothing to do with its acseptance or rejection. If the road violated its former agreement with the city, the courts are open for redress, and there redress can be had. Its track-way and depot buildings were constructed at considerable expense, and to force its surrender of a situation which has entailed a very large outlay of money, and has become a very great converience to the public, would be a punishment wholly out of proportion to its dereliction. and that the highway now engaged in a warits powers, will not find enemies at home as
